WHAT IS VOICES?

VOICES, Inc. provides free and confidential Ombudsman services. We are a not-for-profit organization founded in 1980 to address concerns and problems in Evansville nursing homes and licensed assisted living homes. VOICES, Inc. is the only agency in Vanderburgh County dedicated solely to advocate for residents in these homes. Services include investigation of complaints, resolution of problems and protection of resident rights. Additional services include information/training for staff, residents and the general public on long-term care issues—these issues are quality of life, residents' rights, selection of a home and sources of payment for care.

AREA-WIDE RESIDENT COUNCIL MEETING

The quarterly area-wide resident council meeting will take place on Friday, August 7th. It will be held at the Browning Event Room at the Central Library from 2:30 to 4:00 p.m. Doors will open at 1:30 p.m.

This will be a gathering of long-term care residents across Vanderburgh County. There will be a guest speaker from Indiana Legal Services to answer your questions about guardianships, Powers of Attorney, healthcare representatives, Living Wills, etc. Afterwards, stay for food and BINGO!

Please encourage residents from your home to attend. Also, persuade your Activity Director to add this event to your home's calendar and make transportation arrangements for those residents who wish to go.

PROBLEM SOLVING WITHIN YOUR HOME

- *Step 1: Voice Concerns to Those Directly Involved
- *Step 2: Bring Your Concerns to Staff Supervisors
- *Step 3: Follow the Facility's Complaint Process
- *Step 4: Work With the Resident or Family Council
- *Step 5: Contact the Long-Term Care Ombudsman
- *Step 6: Contact the Indiana State Department of Health (ISDH)

*For further information on steps 1 through 6, see prior issues of VOICES Viewpoint, or go online to www.voicesinc.info and click on "newsletters".

Step 7: Talk with Inspectors When They Investigate the Facility

Nursing homes are investigated annually and when a complaint is made to the Indiana State Department of Health (ISDH). These state inspectors are nurses who conduct a complete investigation. Signs are posted on the outside doors of the home, by the state inspectors, indicating an investigation is taking place. During each survey, state inspectors are available for private interviews with residents to discuss their views about the care the facility provides. In addition, state inspectors may also talk with family members and friends of residents.

Make a point of talking with the state inspectors early on about your concerns. Be prepared to give them as much information as possible (who, what, when and where) so they can best investigate your concerns. If you wish, you can also remain anonymous.

QUALITY OF LIFE: WHAT IS IT and DO YOU HAVE IT?

Quality of life means that you are in control of your own life. This means that YOU, not the nursing home staff, determine what is best for you. By law, nursing homes cannot setup routines or programs and expect residents to adapt to them. Nursing homes must reasonably accommodate the decisions you make about your daily life.

Your quality of life is what you believe it to be. No one else can define what quality means to you. Federal and State laws require nursing homes to care for their residents in a manner and environment that respects each person as an individual.

Some questions to ask yourself to see if you have quality of life are:

- Do you decide what you will wear each day?
- Is your hair washed, trimmed, combed the way you want it?
- Are your nails kept clean and trimmed the way you like?
- Are you asked which activities you would like to attend?
- If there are no activities which interest you, does someone ask you what activities you would like?
- Is your private space respected? (No one should change the station on your radio or TV, open your drawers, or move your personal belongings without your permission.)
- When staff members come to your door do they knock AND wait for your response before they enter?
- Have staff members asked you what name you prefer to go by, and do they use it respectfully?
- Do staff members ask you your preferences and pay attention to them regarding room changes or roommates?
- Are you able to choose between a tub bath or shower and whether you prefer to bathe morning, afternoon, or evening? (Staff members should ask you your preferences and then follow them when setting up your care plan.)

These are just a few examples of the kind of things which may determine your quality of life. It is very important for you to understand that you are not causing trouble by making your wishes known and expecting them to be respected and acted upon. You are actually doing the nursing home a favor by helping them to meet the requirements of the law.
